

Congratulations

This certifies that has fulfilled all of the tasks required to

Discover Steampunk

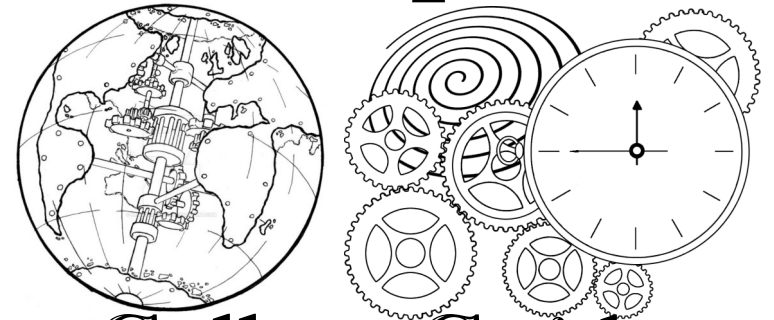

and is qualified to continue on this amazing journey of inspiration, better creative problem solving and invention.

Signed _____

Date _____

Museum of Idaho

Discover Steampunk

Gallery Guide

The Museum of Idaho is on a journey through time, in this fusion of History, Art and Technology! You can join us as we travel through the Past, Present & Future!

Use this Gallery Guide to discover Steampunk, join in the interactive adventure... and just maybe, GET INSPIRED!

Origins Gallery

As you are welcomed to the exhibit, the origins gallery helps to explain how and why artist, Bruce Rosenbaum created his HUMACHINES. One of his intents was to “take your breath away.”

Can you find the lungs in a vacuum tube?

What’s your favorite artifact in this gallery and why?

H.G. Wells Gallery

H. G. Wells was fascinated by communication and time travel. His HUMACHINE represents a time machine.

Can you find the monkey wrench?

(hint: it has a red handle)

What’s your favorite artifact in this gallery and why?

Thomas Blanchard Gallery

Thomas Blanchard had “steam powered dreams” and was the inventor of the reproduction lathe automating the production process. Can you find the Steam Whistle in this Gallery?

(hint: not on the HUMACHINE)

What’s your favorite artifact in this gallery and why?

Isaac Singer Gallery

Isaac Singer didn’t invent the sewing machine, he was just great at marketing it. Singer’s HUMACHINE is a Rocketeer “Time Stitcher.” Do you know what a thimble is? (see illustration)

Can you find the thimble collection on his rocket pack?

What’s your favorite artifact in this gallery and why?

Jan Matzeliger Gallery

Listen carefully to what Jan (pronounced YAN) has to say. He has a challenge for you. He overcame obstacles to impact the way we all live today. Can you find the artifact not made to be worn but to attract customers- a GIANT Shoe?

What’s your favorite artifact in this gallery and why?

Mary Shelley Gallery

Mary Shelley was inspired by experiments with the use of electricity and medical advancements in her time to write Frankenstein. Read about a Jacob’s Ladder under the arch with the other interactives.

Can you find one in her HUMACHINE?

What’s your favorite artifact in this gallery and why?

Jules Verne Gallery

Jules Verne’s HUMACHINE depicts the two sides of one of his most famous characters, Captain Nemo. On the front is the undersea explorer and conservationist while on the back you have the evil Nemo controlling things.

Can you find the skull of a moray (electric) eel on this undersea vessel?

What’s your favorite artifact in this gallery and why?

George Eastman Gallery

George Eastman invented flexible film, advancing us past this giant camera necessary for large negatives that makes up his HUMACHINE. Can you find the much smaller and popular Brownie Camera?

(hint: not on the HUMACHINE)

What’s your favorite artifact in this gallery and why?